My 8 Keys to the CBI Classroom:

Career Exploration – Papers, Interviews, Job Shadowing, Speakers

Collaboration – Ability have students work in groups and the ability to use your CBI connections

Written Communication – Letters, Career Research Papers, Book Reviews

Oral Communication – Journals, Speeches, Interviews – Read to them

Citizenship – Service Learning and Community Service – Simple or extensive

Technology – Keeping up with trends – use what you know and let kids teach you what you don't know

Critical Thinking – Challenging students with real world problems

Content – relating real world job situations into content areas and constantly seeking new information

What can you do for your school?

Paul Whitney Bio

Paul Whitney was born in Lima, Ohio and is a graduate of Ohio Northern University. Paul earned his Master's in the Art of Teaching from Marygrove College and his OWE (CBI) endorsement from Kent State University. Paul has been able to interact with a wide variety of student demographics, during his 36 years as an educator, with 27 years as a CBI coordinator. Paul's most rewarding aspect of his career has been the ability to connect with his student's as adults and seeing their successes. Paul resides in the Detroit Shoreway neighborhood in Cleveland, Ohio with his wife, Tracey. They have 3 adult children who have all benefited from Paul's career advice!

Cy Kincaid Bio

Cy Kincaid was born in Marietta, Ohio and is a graduate of Marietta College. Cy has a Master's in Education Leadership from the University of Cincinnati. Cy recently completed his 20th year teach Career Based Intervention, with the last 16 years at North Union High School. He has been on the CBI Board of Directors of Ohio for 17 years and has served on the executive board in many roles, including two terms as President. Being on the CBI Board of Directors is the biggest privilege of his career. He also advises National Honor Society, the Senior Class, Yearbook, and is the North Union boy's golf coach. Cy's hobbies include collection sports and movie memorabilia and collection autographs. Cy resides in Delaware with his wife, North Union Choir Director, Debbie Kincaid and daughter, Zoe Grace.
